RECENT OPERATIONS

By Paul Rardin

If you haven't traveled the Parkway on Canal Point road lately you have a surprise awaiting you. You'll find the surprise just north of the canning plant when you cross the railroad siding that runs to the sugar mill. Some "expert" repair work has been done recently on the crossing and in case you are still in your car after you get across this place of no work I would like to know what you think of said construction—or should I say obstruction? I'm not an engineer but it looks to me like a railroad crossing could be constructed so that a driver could pass over it making at least 15 miles an hour without throwing the occupants through the top.

Politics! Do you know who is going to run for representative from the Glades section next June? There is a saying that a fellow can find out more about how happenings when he gets away from it than he can when he is in it. I haven't been able to contact him this week and I don't know whether he wants to make a public announcement or not. Of course, there is plenty of time.

Vacations. I don't mind folks having vacations but I hate those cards they send saying "I wish you were here."

At a special meeting of the town council in Pahokee on Monday morning the members delegated authority to Mayor John Dadda to act as an incinerator, an addition to the town hall, and funds with which to build a complete lighting system. When you look over the list of things that are being done by the town council in the future, I don't think it would be a bad thing if they had a few more things to do.

Let's see now! Wasn't there something said several weeks ago about a village mail delivery to be established in Pahokee?

It was my good fortune the other day to visit the town and see the scene of the Mayaca Corporation's building activities. I saw good concrete work, a lot of steel, and a lot of money. I have talked recently. He says that about 2000 bushels of the delectable fruit of the cane will be going to market. Then, too, I inspected the new mill which is being built in the town. I have I've ever seen so much money going into one building but I don't know how much it will be worth when it is all over.

The building being erected by Bill Bloom in Pahokee is going to be a fine place for a couple of stores. One story room on the west will be 26 x 80 feet and the other one will be 40 x 80 feet. It is being built by the contractor on the corner where the old bank was. F. M. George of Canal Point is the contractor on the corner where the old bank was.

I see the building on Belle Glade road, formerly occupied by Grant Distributing Company, is now occupied by F. M. George. The brokerage office of the Cate company will be maintained in the old building and the new building will be used as a distribution point for growers supply handling.

Framework Up On New Hotel At Port Mayaca

Rapid Progress Is Being Made On New Structure

Construction work is well under way on the new Inn being erected at Port Mayaca by the Mayaca Corporation with the framework and plumbers already at work on the second floor. The building is located just back of the ridge and to the north of the home recently vacated by Paul Hoesel and family and now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lapp. The present structure, which is being built in such a manner as to allow addition of another wing at any time, is 36 x 60 feet and will have two stories high. The building is being constructed with concrete and steel, with the plumbing and electric work being completed. The building is situated just back of the ridge and a basement has been constructed to be used for whatever necessary demands when the building is completed. In the basement there are 16 large windows and two large doors. The structure will be roofed with American type shingles which are manufactured from asbestos and cement and the siding will be of mitered corner lap siding.

A large porch 10 feet wide will run the length of the front of the building and entrance will be on a level with the ridge which runs parallel with the main entrance. The structure will be given a colonial type effect with slender columns supporting the roof of the porch. All plans for the building have been approved by the State Health Commission. Upon entering the Inn one will face the office which will be constructed along the main entrance. From the right will lead to the upper floor. On the right will be the main lobby and from there will lead to the upper floor. French doors will lead into another dining room which may be used as a private dining room. The building will be 11 feet wide and the main entrance will be on the right. A large fireplace is also being constructed in this room.

Ceiling in the new building will be constructed of plaster on in-laid wood. A great deal of heat while the walls will be finished in 12-inch cypress panels, a great deal of heat while the walls will be finished in 12-inch cypress panels, a great deal of heat while the walls will be finished in 12-inch cypress panels.

FAKE REGISTRATIONS

St. Petersburg Independent: On again, off again—is the story of Tampa registrations. When books closed for the city mayoralty election next month, an all-time record of 34,088 names had been written down. At least 10,000 of these were bogus, the Tampa Tribune estimated, and a cast commentary ended on the prospects for an honest election.

Now it appears that the Tribune's estimate may really be too small. The city election board has announced that it has chopped 6,858 names off the voting list, and expects at least 2,000 others to come off.

Neighboring cities, mindful of the influence that this "hot vote" has on state as well as local elections, look on with some amazement at this purfery operation of scratching thousands upon thousands of names off the registration books but proceeding no further with the punishment of those who actually wrote them down and those who permitted it.

In striking 6,858 names off the list, the board expects to have run into a "mist" of 3,000 bogus registrations. Here are some of the reasons given for the elimination of certain names:

Dead persons—113.

Persons registered in wrong precinct—469.

Persons who never lived at addresses given—519.

Persons giving addresses where there were vacant lots—368.

Persons giving fictitious street addresses—427.

Persons who could not be traced—733.

Aliens and persons under age—9 and so it goes.

Another announcement that will be striking names from day to day, and reports of the "rubber stamp" method of registration.

Although the powers that be in Tampa take the matter as a corollary, they do not deny the fact that fraud and corruption in elections are generated mainly by unscrupulous politicians and their cronies. We are not going to let these thousands of bogus names just hang on to give the voters a misleading picture of the political machine. And they form the working basis for powerful manipulating forces on election day.

Tampa apparently takes them for granted. Office workers here take for granted the "hot vote" which is simply an institution. Under the circumstances, the candidate who permits that vote to go to his opponent will likely lose the race.

Opposing candidates, however, touch their noses to the fact that this condition cannot be changed. In the present race, speakers for both sides have devoted an undue amount of time to denouncing the other side as liable to corrupt the election. And as they speak, the city board goes on scrubbing and scratching names. And with all the scratching, the "hot vote" will still be there.

Candidates are sure of it, and Tampa generally admit it.

To the outsider the poring through the failure of candidates to prosecute the illegal registrant. He has violated the law, and there is an appropriate punishment on the books for that. If Tampa really wanted to stop this, prosecution of a number of obvious cases would be an excellent warning.

Out of 10,000 names improperly placed on the books, the authorities ought to have no difficulty in selecting a typical batch to work on.

Failure to do this simple forthright thing cannot convey the impression elsewhere that Tampa does not want ballot reform—at least do not want it had enough to exert themselves a bit. Indifference plays a role. Too many people evidently regard the registrations and ballot box stuffing just good old Spanish customs.

When we are busy we are usually good. But when we are good we are not always busy.

An uncomfortable place to live is just beyond your income.

Pl. Menke Leader: A duel-won fight not shot in Texas between Alexander Shott and John Nott. Nott was shot and shot not shot, according to circumstantial evidence. But, as several remarked, it was better to be shot than Nott.

There was a rumor that Nott was not shot and shot not shot, which proves either that the shot Shott shot at Nott was not shot, or that Nott was shot not shot. It was made to appear at the trial that the shot Shott shot at Nott or as accidents with firearms are frequent, it might have been possible that the shot Shott shot at Nott and Nott was shot. It appeared to some that the shot Shott shot at Nott and Nott was shot by Nott. Anyway, it is hard to tell who was shot.

Border Cities Star: A woman whose husband had been dead for some time as well as local elections, look on with some amazement at this purfery operation of scratching thousands upon thousands of names off the registration books but proceeding no further with the punishment of those who actually wrote them down and those who permitted it.

"I am very happy," John replied. "Happier than you were on your last trip," she asked.

"Yes," was the answer. "I am far happier."

"Tell me, John, what is it like in heaven?"

"Heaven!" squeaked John. "I am not in heaven."

New York Times: Forty years ago there were six divorces for every 100 marriages. In the last year it has been 16 or more divorces for every 100 marriages. The casualty rate is nearly three times as high as it was in 1895.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

HOME, and boy, am I glad to get back to good old air-conditioned Florida! But a fellow really has to get out and mill around in the heat for a while to appreciate a true prospective and even more appreciate what a grand and glorious state Florida is in comparison.

I suppose you are just about worn down with all this personal puff about my vacation. I could keep on writing columns about what we saw and did for the next six months, but I won't. I'll try and wind it up with this column.

Mother Nature must have had a swell time making the country that lies between the Sierras and the Rockies. She just flung a piece of mountain here, a chunk of desert there and kind of used the territory as a sort of catch-all for the scenery and material she had left over and didn't know what else to do with. It certainly is wild and picturesque, but not very inviting to the homemaker.

Stopped at Salt Lake City long enough to take a swim in the famous briny pond. It is alright if you want to do it, just so you can get it up with this column.

Between you and me, you haven't missed a whole lot, and you can get the same reaction in your own home if you'll just dump a lot of rock salt with plenty of sharp edges in the bottom of your bathtub and then fill it half full of water and add a hundred pound sack of table salt.

The one thing that stands out in my memory of the famed city is not the Mormon Temple or Brigham Young's young idea but the cockeyed traffic signals they had there. They just about drove me crazy.

At street intersections, they have the regulation red, yellow and green lights, but instead of the usual "go, stop, go" bell, every time the darn things change they are accompanied by a shrill police whistle.

Well, I stopped like a well-behaved driver on a red light and waited for the GO signal, just as the light turned green and I started to cross a doggone police whistle shrieked at me.

Well, not the kind of a guy who disregards police whistles and the only thing I ever learned to do when one of 'em goes off in my ear is to STOP and find out WHY.

So I promptly slammed on the brakes in the middle of the intersection and began looking around to see what the trouble was.

That started honkin' their horns at me and yelled "Go on you Slop!" By the time I got my gear shifted, the foot light had changed to red, and no police whistle went off again, and my face was redder than the light.

If you ever drive from Salt Lake City to Denver don't take the so-called short, scenic route, we did the advice of a filling station attendant and I'm telling you it is the LONGEST short route in the world.

Most of the way it is surfaced with sharp stones and loose gravel with a marvelous dust and chuck here, or rather than a Greek wrestler and as crooked as a Ram's horn.

Every time a car passes you get a shower of stones that when in try you machine gun bullets, you can close your windows and try dodging the broken glass or leave 'em open and make a stab at shakin' the darn things, at the same time tryin' to breathe and cover you like a blanket.

It may be the worst route you can't prove it by me because I couldn't see it for the dust but say be if a guy could travel it in an armored tank and was wearin' a gun mask and bullet proof vest he might find it a right pretty country.

Out of respect to Nate Reece, editor of the Arcadian, who comes from there I'll refrain from telling you what I think of Kansas other than to say that it was hotter than a Hula dancer and as flat as last night's beer.

Anyhow I'm sure glad to get home and I like Florida better than any other spot on the map, Uncle Sam's or anybody else's.

A wag was in the office this morning and sprang this one: Do you know what they call the people who ride on the new stream line trains? "No," we replied, and then impudently asked "What do they call them?" The reply was: "Passengers."

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO STOP SCORCHING HOT POTS and PANS FOREVER?

When you cook electrically, no soot blackens pots and pans because electricity heats without flames. And with electric cookery no heat creeps up around the sides, causing the food to stick to the pot at the high water mark.

Cleanliness is only one of the many reasons why electric cookery is better. Automatic control, certain results, safety, and your low Thrifty Three electric rate, all help to make electric cookery the best way for you to cook.

The electric range itself is as easy to clean as a china dish. The absence of smoke and soot saves kitchen curtains and walls too.

PROGRESSIVE STEPS BRIGHTEN PROSPECTS FOR EGG PRODUCERS

Bright prospects are seen for the egg business in Florida.

From the industry itself has come an announcement that an educational campaign will be conducted in the state to improve the quality of eggs sold in Florida markets.

From Tallahassee have come details of the new egg law, prime purpose of which is to maintain high standards for eggs. Back of this law, which was passed by the legislature in its last session, was the Florida Poultry Producers association.

The campaign, which is to be conducted by the Florida Poultry Council and various state agencies, will stress proper handling of eggs by producers, packers, and dealers so that the supply will be of high quality. Consumers will also be informed on ways of determining the quality of eggs they buy.

The state egg law requires that all eggs offered for sale be plainly marked so that the consumer will know just what kind of eggs he is buying. It also provides for the destruction of eggs that are unfit for human consumption.

These two developments are the sign of healthy progress in the state poultry industry. Producers have come to the realization that providing high quality products is the key to success in eggs as well as in other commodities.

Citizens of Florida and visitors to the state consume about 30,000,000 dozen eggs annually, of which about 40 percent, or 12,000,000, are imported from other states at a cost of about $3,000,000.

Florida's egg industry, however, will increase the sales of quality eggs themselves, they are not the only ones who will benefit from the demand for Florida eggs.

Florida egg industry will grow rapidly for those in the "eggival" zone, and considerable part of the amount of money sent to other states heretofore for imported eggs.

Florida poultrymen have gotten on the right track by insisting on quality eggs themselves, they are not the only ones who will benefit from the demand for Florida eggs.

KINGFISH CLAIMS FLORIDA IN HIS GROUP; LEADERS SAY NO

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 29.—(FNS)—The claim of Louisiana "Kingfish" Huey Long as a candidate for president in 1936 has been carried Florida along with a group of other "southern states" brought promptly and emphatically from chiefs of both the Democratic and Republican forces in the state.

Commenting on Long's statement, Democratic Executive Committee Chairman, Col. J. B. Hodges, said: "Florida will support Democratic principles and President Roosevelt for nomination for president."

"Democracy in Florida will not submit to the dictatorship of Senator Huey Long of Louisiana," he said. "His claim that he will carry this state is groundless."

Judge Allen E. Walker, chairman of the Republican State Committee, voiced with equal confidence the thought that Huey would find no votes awaiting him from among those who follow the elephant, he said.

"Huey Long might appeal to the extremely radical voters of Florida but he would not carry a single county in my opinion."

"The talking points of Florida have had more experience with the socialist and dictatorial national administration than they want. Certainly they will not jump out of the frying pan into the fire."

"If the present trend continues, Florida will be a poor third," he said. "I will carry Florida and if Huey Long should run he would trail Roosevelt a poor third."

B. K. Roberts, National Commitment for Young Democrats of Florida, said: "Huey Long will get mighty few votes in Florida. Down here, we believe in government by the people and not by demagogues and dictators."

"I think there is no doubt that Senator Roosevelt will be re-nominated and no doubt that he will carry Florida overwhelmingly."

Cohen, secretary of the Young Democrats of Florida, said: "Huey Long will get mighty few votes in Florida. Down here, we believe in government by the people and not by demagogues and dictators."
